AIDS quilt visits City Hall

Part of 5th annual World AIDS Day

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Placentia paid tribute the hundreds of thousands of people who have died of AIDS by displaying the AIDS Memorial Quilt last week at City Hall as part of the 5th Annual World AIDS Day.

The city also proclaimed Dec. 1 World AIDS Day, which is observed worldwide.

The quilt is a memorial made up of thousands of 3-foot-by-6-foot fabric panels bearing the name of someone who died of AIDS.

Each panel is decorated by friends and family.

The panels go first to the Names Project office before being shipped to San Francisco where volunteers stitch them into a quilt.

The Names Project sponsors and coordinates the quilt.

Couple's bodies found in Nevada

Disappeared in plane Oct. 29

By Jeordan Legon
The Orange County Register

The remains of a Placentia couple whose plane disappeared three weeks ago were discovered Nov. 19 on a northern Nevada mountainside, dashing the family's hopes that the two were alive.

Officials said the plane hit the mountain at full speed, creating a 6-foot-deep trench and spreading debris over 100 yards.

"I'm glad it's over and they didn't suffer," said Heather Wilson, daughter of Barbara Keating, 55. "There's nothing left for us but a bag and some of my mother's jewelry."

Wilson said family members identified the remains as Keating and her boyfriend, Larry Richards, 56, who disappeared Oct. 29 while flying their twin-engine Beechcraft from Corona to the couple's ranch in Idaho.

"We're in a lot of pain, but at least we know we didn't give up until the end," Wilson said. "Our mission was to find them one way or another. Now that we've done that, we can start our grieving."

The plane was spotted about 10 a.m. by a Department of Fish and Wildlife helicopter that was flying over the Shell Creek Mountain range, about seven miles east of Ely, Nev., White Pine County Sheriff Bernie Romero said.

Deputies spent about two hours getting to the crash site, using dirt roads and hiking treacherous, rocky terrain. When they arrived, Romero said, they found that part of the plane's engine was buried about two feet in the ground. The plane was found at an altitude of 8,600 feet, about 2,000 feet below the mountain peak.

The cause of the crash was under investigation, but a Nevada Civil Air Patrol official said the accident may have been caused by a heavy snow-

ELECTION

City's voter turnout put at 80 percent

Participation mirrors county's

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Placentia voters followed the county's trend to go to the polls and vote.

Almost 80 percent of Orange County's and Placentia's registered voters went to the polls.

"It's high but we've had higher or comparable turnout in previous years," said Suzanne Slupsky, election information supervisor for the Orange County Registrar of Voters.

The highest voter turnout was in 1964 when 90 percent of the county's registered voters cast ballots, Slupsky said.

In the City Council election, 12 candidates vied for three, four-year seats, making it the largest field of candidates since 1976.

Mayor John Tynes said the high voter turnout worked to his advantage. He said it's important people let their voice be heard.

"They couldn't just sit back. It wasn't going to change if they didn't get involved," Tynes said.

Challenger Adrienne Edmondson said that people were ready for a change. She also said that Ross Perot was responsible for inspiring voters.

Challenger Mike Stehly, who placed fourth, said the large number of voters worked against him.

"I think the high voter turnout hurt me ... If there's more people I have a harder time getting my name out," he said.

State department opens offices

Food, Agriculture Department now is in Placentia

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

The State Department of Food and Agriculture opened a new office in Placentia last week having outgrown its trailer facilities in Anaheim.

The public was invited to an open house Nov. 18 to become acquainted with agency and its objectives, said Dorothy Howard, agricultural pest control specialist.

The new office is located at 312 S. Melrose St.

The department regulates the plant and animal industries, pest control and safeguards public health. The department's primary targets are the melon, Oriental, Mediterranean and Mexican fruit flies, which cause most of the crop damage in California.

They also control the gypsy moth and Japanese beetle on a seasonal basis. "They're very destructive to the fruit industry ... One fly could lay as many as 100 eggs," Howard said.

M. Loren Hernandez/North County News
Dorothy Howard of the Agricultural Pest Control Department looks into a box of sterile Medflies that will be released to help control the pest.

One of the major causes of the pest problems is people smuggling in uninspected fruit.

The department has more than 3,000 traps set up throughout Orange County to detect pests. But it also relies on public sightings.

The department also employs about 1,200 seasonal employees a year in the plant, animal, inspection and pest management areas.

For employment call the Equal Employment Opportunity office at (916) 323-7927.

To report sightings of fruit flies call the Department of Food and Agriculture in Placentia at 993-4301.

Students from area elementary schools listen as the Pacific Symphony Orchestra plays classicial music in the Valencia High School gym.

Symphony serenades students

By Tenny Tatusian
North County News

Amid yawns, glazed stares and a few bobbing heads, the Pacific Symphony Orchestra performed an hour-long afternoon concert for Placentia elementary school students.

Fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders were brought to the Valencia High School auditorium Thursday to hear pieces composed by Mozart, Beethoven and a few other classic names.

The free concert is part of the symphony's outreach program, bringing classical music to the community.

Although the students may have preferred to be listening to a rapper instead of a symphony, they gave the music a chance. Not that they had a choice.

"Pretend you're sitting back in very comfortable seats in a plush red auditorium," said Lois Johnson, PSO music coordinator and violinist.

Before the concert began, students were briefed on proper protocol when attending a symphony.

"It's not appropriate to whistle, stand on your feet or yell," Johnson said. "You'll know each piece is done when the director puts his hands down and that's when you applaud."

Throughout the concert, director Daniel Hege tried to impress upon students the importance of classical music.

He asked students which kind of music they listen to the most. Rap music received the most votes.

Jack Hancock/North County News

Pacific Symphony violinist Michelle Kim plays a solo during the symphony's performance for students.

"If you want a balanced diet, you can't eat just one kind of food. You shouldn't all just listen to one kind of music. We'll all function better in life if we listen to classical music," he said.

While a few muted giggles were heard now and then, students mustered what they could to be a good audience.

The highlight of the concert came with the last performance, as Hege went out to the audience looking for students to take his spot.

He picked two who, with shocked expressions, stood before the orchestra holding the baton and moving their arms about.

Rose Drive Elementary students Jennifer Watson and Amber Berg both said they enjoyed the concert.

"It was nice listening to that kind of music even though I don't usually listen to it," said Watson, 10.

And Berg, 10, added, "I didn't mind listening to it, but I'd be too scared to have to play an instrument."

EDUCATION

Sex bias in class 'subtle'

By Gina Guasco
North County News

Waving hands blur in a teacher's eye. The girls and boys squirm, anxious to reply. The teacher notices a boy who is normally a handful and decides to call on him.

Sex bias in the classroom or average everyday teaching?

Without meaning to, many educators single out boys and offer them more attention which may further their career opportunities, recent studies show.

Orange County school superintendents, teachers, counselors and California State University, Fullerton officials last Tuesday discussed the studies and how prominient the problem actually is within their areas.

"We can't afford to waste any good minds," said Sharon Schuster, the American Association of University Women president who hosted the event at the La Habra City School District's offices.

She said one problem is that educators do not realize that they are even participating in sex bias in the classroom.

"I don't think teachers feel they are biased; I have a hard time believeing I'm biased," said Barbara D'Arcy, Placentia

AIDS victim speaks out

Now lectures students on protecting others

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Joe Orellana says 1990 was a "real good year."

The 21-year-old college student was enjoying the bachelor's life to the fullest. He dated many women and had a care-free attitude about sex.

"I never thought about getting a girl pregnant or getting diseases. I never thought it would happen to me," Orellana said.

And as a heterosexual man, he never thought about acquired immune deficiency syndrome being the No. 1 killer of people under 30 nationally. That carefree lifestyle ended when he discovered he was HIV positive nearly a year ago. HIV stands for human immunodeficiency virus, the precursor to AIDS.

Now Orellana lectures about AIDS awareness at high schools and colleges to protect others.

According to the Orange County Health Care Agency of Disease Prevention and Control, there are 2,177 cases of AIDS in Orange County. And there are an estimated 10,000 to 15,000 people infected with HIV.

If those infected with HIV do not modify their behavior, AIDS could become the No. 1 killer of people under 30 in Orange County, said Gary Costas, program coordinator for the AIDS Response Program in Garden Grove.

And, if the current trend continues, heterosexuals could be in the same predicament the gay community was in 10 years ago, he said.

"It has the potential to snowball," Costas said.

In Placentia, 19 people have contracted AIDS. Fourteen of those have died.

Orellana will never forget Dec. 2, 1991 — the day he learned he had AIDS.

Any words that could describe the way he felt that day were merely understatements, he said. He believes he contracted HIV from a former girlfriend who he speculates may have been an intravenous drug user.

At the time, he had another girlfriend. She tested negative for AIDS and he hasn't heard from her since.

Sam Gangwer/North County News
Joe Orellana discovered he was HIV positive in 1991. He now is educating others about AIDS.

He felt very alone.

Mortified by the thought he might die from a disease most often associated with gay men, he kept it a secret.

"When I first found out it felt like I lost my sexuality," he said.

Although he told one of four siblings, months passed without telling his parents. His parents noticed dramany people who have lost a loved one to the epidemic.

"It literally shows how big this epidemic is and it's a way to remember the person you loved," said Joe Orellana, 22, a Valencia High School graduate who tested HIV-positive last year.

The human immunodeficiency virus is the precursor to AIDS, acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

"It's hard for me to look at it because I'm positive and maybe one day I know my quilt will be up there," Orellana said.

For Clairee Tynes, the quilt carries an different meaning. She lost her son, Bill, to AIDS in 1987. After his death, she wrote a book "The Miracle of Bill" and became involved in the AIDS Ministry Ecumenical Network.

Tynes was responsible for getting the quilt displayed in Placentia. She is the wife of John Tynes, the mayor of Placentia.

She believes it's the most effective tool we have to educate people about AIDS.

Long Range ®DRYDAY forecast

The planning graph below is a forecast of the daily probability of dry or rainy weather throughout the month. The "valleys" represent low risk of rain and are therefore the expected dry or fair periods. The "peaks," identified by a star and indicating a risky day, signify higher risk of wet weather and should be avoided when scheduling weather-sensitive activities. The heights of the various peaks indicate their percent of risk compared to one another, but just as none of them reach 100 percent, do not expect rain every time.

How to use the DRYDAY Forecast

1. "DRYDAY" forecasts are designed to help you, finally, be able to plan your activities weeks ahead without someone changing the forecast.

2. You must watch the forecast each day. Therefore, cut the forecast out of this publication and post it conveniently, like on the refrigerator door or on a bulletin board at home or at the office.

3. After a while you will notice that most rainy days occur on risky days and you will gradually gain confidence in planning your activities on the DRYDAYS.

The forecasts won't be perfect, but you will enjoy very favorable odds over the months and years. Remember "risky" days are not necessarily rainy days, but simply the days that have been calculated for this particular forecast situation over a long period of time, to be in a category which has demonstrated a higher probability for inclement weather.

BIAS: Educators discuss results of study

FROM 3

Yorba Linda Unified School District's Teen Mother Program director.

But, Schuster said the subtle actions imply much more to the young girl.

"It tells girls they are marginal in the classroom," she said. And this carries over into the rest of her life, she added, whether it be in college or career choices.

Schuster asked the panel to discuss the problem as they see it in their areas and what steps they could to do curb it.

Most panelists said they were happy to be invited to the discussion and were excited to take the information back to their jobs.

Awareness is the key, said Ed Seal, Brea Olinda Unified School District superintendent. He said he would raise the issue at a cultural diversity meeting Tuesday night. "It is a form of discrimination," he added.

ORELLANA: AIDS victim lectures students

FROM 4

matic mood swings and asked what was bothering him. He finally told them.

His parents were angry he kept his condition a secret. However, they were very supportive.

His inability to cope with his fate made him angry. Feeling helpless, he directed some of that anger at his parents.

"When you're growing up and get a scratch on your knee, what does your mother do? She puts a Band-Aid on it and kisses it and makes it better. Well, this is the one thing mom can't make better," Orellana said.

It took Orellana about three months to come to terms with his circumstances. While enrolled in a human sexuality class at Fullerton College, he came out of the closet. Since the class didn't cover AIDS-related information, he ended up lecturing to the class. From that point on he has been an AIDS activist.

Orellana is involved in many AIDS support groups and co-founded Positively Straight, a support network for hetereosexual people with AIDS.

"A lot of people keep it inside and that's detrimental," he said.

It's important that HIV-positive people try to live a normal life, he said. He's doing that by educating people about the disease.

WHO TO CALL

- Positively Straight is a support group for hetereosexuals who are HIV positive. The group offers a social life and emotional support. For information on Positively Straight, call 542-4130.
- For information on AIDS contact your local chapter of the American Red Cross or The National AIDS Information Hot Line at 1-(800) 342-AIDS. For Spanish-speaking persons, Linea Nacional de SIDA: 1-(800) 344-SIDA. For hearing- impaired persons, TTY/TDD hot line: 1-(800) AIDS-TTY.
- For AIDS testing, call The AIDS Response Program at 534-0961.

Orellana said one of the most dangerous aspects of AIDS is people's ignorance about it.

"I was totally ignorant. I'm a prime example," he said, "As long as you engage in sexual activity, you are at risk," he said.

The only way to know a person is HIV-positive is to ask.

"Half the time you can't tell who's positive and who's negative," he said.

He urges people to learn about the disease, practice safe sex and get frequent AIDS tests.

"The bottom line is to abstain, I can't express that enough. If you are engaging in sexual activity please make sure you utilize the (AIDS) education to the fullest and protect yourself because you don't want to be another statistic," Orellana said.

Despite the social barriers and deep loneliness that envelops him sometimes, his outlook is bright. He finds ways to emphasize the things he values in life such as his family. He has a greater appreciation for everything.

And he looks forward to the future. After he graduates from college he wants to become an AIDS counselor or AIDS teacher at a school. He plans to continue his efforts as an AIDS activists. And one day, he would like to get married.

"Don't take life for granted because you never know when something in your life can be taken away.

"We all think we're gonna live forever," Orellana said.

Japan

Japan, is a country comprised of three major islands, and multiple religions, which are often compatible and personalized into one theology. It is thought of as a far and distant culture but is diversified from ancient customs to today's newspaper headlines which effect our purchases from automobiles to VCRs.

It is a land of extreme contrasts from kimonos to calculators, that are ever changing. Although our economic future in the United States is very closely linked, many of us know very little about Japan or its people. Some of us remember a time, too painful to easily forget, when the winds of war blew too strongly to think or inquire about this country all the way on the other side of the Pacific. Fortunatley, mutual wounds heal and times and people change and grow.

People to people programs like the Fullerton/Fukui, Japan Sister City Association create the opportunity for a person to person on-going exchange. Through such exchanges, we find how much we have in common with cultures that years before seemed so different. The world gets smaller and friendlier as we learn more about other cultures and people. Japan is a wonderful country with warm, loving, thoughtful people, rich in heritage, religion, beautiful mountains, shores, temples and cities.

We are going to celebrate Japan at our FREE monthly program, Wednesday, December 2, 1992 in co-operation with Fullerton Savings and Loan. An exciting film entitled "Closer to Japan" will be presented by the Japan National Tourist Organization and Japan Airlines. As an added attraction we will be sharing artifacts of our Japan visits and an update of the recent successful tour to Osaka, Fukui, Kyoto, Pearl Island, the National Park of Hakone, the Great Buddha of Kamakura and Tokyo by the Fullerton Sister City delegation. We invite you to join us for this presentation to learn more about Japan and/or to share your memories of this unforgettable island country.

Students meet Fridays for chess

By Tenny Tatusian
North County News

On any Friday, walking through the murky halls of Troy High School leading into the trenches of science teacher Dan Jundanian's classroom, a group of students can't be interrupted.

It's not a science project or a potentially explosive experiment they're working on.

Instead it's something of a higher mental nature. They're playing chess.

These 14 or so students are members of the loosely organized campus Chess Club. They meet every Friday at lunchtime for a few minutes of the thinking man's sport.

"It's kind of a fun atmosphere," said Matt How, 17.

How has been playing chess Friday afternoons since last year. He said he doesn't consider himself a good player but attends the sessions for the fun of it.

The informal group plays among eight boards set up around the classroom. The skill, Jundanian said, varies from player to player.

"A lot really seem to know how to play," he said.

Jundanian said these are students who are intimidated or unable to compete with athletes who usually run around during lunch.

Losing weight reduces risks

Losing weight can help reduce major health risks such as hypertension, cardiovascular disease and many forms of cancer. In addition, obtaining a healthy body weight increases self-esteem and improves daily energy levels. Therefore, a weight loss program is a positive program.

The B & B diet cookies/cakes program works well. Jack Myers, owner of B and B Pharmacy in Yorba Linda, has lost 30 pounds in three months, simultaneously experiencing a 40 point drop in his cholesterol level (through the cookie diet and moderate exercise).

He reports customers are losing four to ten pounds in the first week and two to three pounds a week thereafter.

B and B Pharmacy is providing a healthy, convenient and delicious meal replacement for weight loss and management. The B & B diet cookies/cakes are nutritionally sound. In addition, they are full of fiber and sweetened naturally with fructose. They provide a safe, great tasting meal that can be taken anywhere and they do not require refrigeration or additional preparation. The cookies/cakes are available in 12 flavors.

Myers says the B & B program is a good way to help people be their healthiest selves.

IN OUR OPINION

BLESSINGS

Thanksgiving reflections upon a 'giving' government

Today is Thanksgiving.

It is a day for offering blessings for all that we have. It's a day to reflect on the gift of having family and friendships, of prosperity and the freedom we still enjoy in this country.

Sometimes our vision of freedom is clouded by the astigmatism of an ever-growing government which tries to be all things to all people — to be the solver of problems that plague all of society when in reality, it is the problem.

As we ponder the good most of us enjoy in our lives as Americans, it is also difficult not to think of those things that disturb us. Much of society sees little wrong with having a growing government. Some see it as a necessary evil. Still others see no virtue, at all, to government controls.

Most people, indeed, see many blessings in having government. Government, after all, provides society with:

- Public parks, supported by users and non-users, through taxation.
- Public schools, education forced upon society by a state that has shown itself to be a failure in this regard, but continues to "steal" our wages to enhance its failures.
- Political control of private-property rights to the point that these rights are almost non-existant today.
- Franchised services that are more costly and less efficient because political franchising eliminates competition.
- Taxes on gasoline, motor vehicle licensing and licensing of drivers, to pay for transportation needs, but "steals" a major portion of these taxes and fees to support pet political projects of legislators.
- Arts and culture, paid for through taxation by all people whether or not they're into arts and culture.
- Redevelopment that sometimes requires the condemnation of private property to make it work.

We could go on about the "generosity" of government, but time and newsprint resources are not sufficient for us to continue. Still, we hope you get the point.

In giving thanks today for the good things in society, we suggest adding a prayer or two that government will cease its unchecked growth and begin a course toward meeting the criteria suggested by Thomas Jefferson when he said, and we paraphrase: The best government is that which governs least.

Teachers: A reflection of dedication

By Don J. Clever
Editorial and commentary director

Regular readers of this newspaper's viewpoints page have by now convinced themselves that we view public school teachers as being scoundrels of sorts. They are aware of the darts we occasionally throw at public education. Those darts, most often, are aimed at the politicized education system. They are sometimes aimed at teachers' organizations, including their unions.

We look upon public education as offering propagandized curriculum by state mandate, and teachers have little control to evade these state edicts.

Most teachers I know are family people. They have the same desires for a proper, quality education that most of us have.

When we attack public education, we declare no war of words against the teachers — only the system.

California's 1992 Teacher of Year is from North Orange County. Maria Vigil recently ended her coveted reign. But she is left with a year-long list of memories to cherish. The La Habra teacher is a reflection of what is good about dedicated teachers, both in public and private schools. I believe most teachers are dedicated to doing the best they know how despite the obstacles placed in their path by the state and, yes, by their unions.

Our readers followed the reign of Maria Vigil during the year. She left a positive feeling among those she met during that time. Time and again, well-deserved accolades were heaped upon her.

Ms. Vigil serves in a public world that is often criticized and little appreciated. Reading of her accomplishments, one can't help respect the work that she has done and will continue to do. Since she is representative of all dedicated teachers, wouldn't it be proper to say they all deserve respect from the community? And what better time to say it than today — Thanksgiving.

ISSUES/ ANSWERS

BUSINESS

Some city officials believe there are too many businesses selling alcohol in certain areas of the city.

QUESTION: Do you think city officials should limit the number of businesses that sell alcohol? Why?

Asked at Placentia Town Center

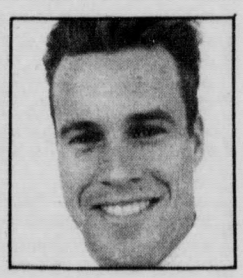
Ryan Ralph, 13, student
"I don't know. I don't really care until I turn 21 and can start buying it."

Mary Jimenez, housewife.
"I don't know. It depends on the business. If they are going to sell to minors or not. I don't think they should limit it, though."

Robert Moore.
"No. There shouldn't be a limit on the businesses. If people don't want to buy it then they don't buy it."

Nurys Lohrke, sales clerk
"No. I think that's the freedom of having a business. If you got a liquor license it's your right to sell as long as you abide by the rules."

Bill Murray. 46, safety coordinator.
"No. It's a person's right to buy whatever they want to buy."



Josh Young, loan representative
"No. I believe that anybody who opens a business can do whatever they want. It's just like free speech, you can say whatever you want."

Landscape architect Gerhard Bombe, background, plants a tree. storm that hit Oct. 29.

Maj. Phil Brown said the storm dropped up to 12 inches of snow on some mountain areas. Richards may have been unable to avoid the high winds and snow, Brown said.

The crash site is six miles east of the airport at Ely, a remote 5,500 resident town. Brown said he estimated the plane went down about 11 a.m. The couple had refueled at Jean, Nev., about 9 a.m., he said. Families of the couple were hopeful last weekend when a pilot picked up an emergency radio signal coming from a mountainous area about 150 miles north of the crash site. But a three-day search by Civil Air Patrol pilots failed to find the plane.

Patrol members determined that the signal was coming from mine equipment in the Ruby Mountains. Clicks that were thought to have come from the downed plane's radio also originated at the mine, Brown said.

The clicks caused some patrol members to think that one or both people in the plane had survived.

"It's a great disappointment for all of us," Brown said of the volunteers from California, Nevada and Idaho who scoured thousands of miles in search of the couple.

Despite the grief felt by loved ones and friends, their memory will be a happy one, said Betty Loadholdtz, one of Keating's closest friends.

"We were confidants, pals and friends...We trusted each other implicity," said Loadholtz, 65, of Placentia.

Loadholtz describes Keating as someone who lifted the spirits of everyone she knew.

"She was very up, a little imp- ... just always laughing ... You couldn't be depressed when you were with Barbara," she said.

A party will be held for couple next week, which will include music and dancing.

APRIL OTTAVIAN

Holiday thanks abound

In keeping with the Thanksgiving spirit, let's start this week's column off with some thank yous to Placentia people.

Thank you to Presbyterian Rev. F. David Throop, Denise Eastin, Kathy Hill and every person who volunteered their encouragement, skills, goods, prayers and continuing vision to make the Homeless Intervention and Shelter House renovation project a reality. (More than $250,000 was donated by contractors, builders and businesses!)

First opened three years ago, the shelter located at 909 Bradford Ave. provided a home on a small scale to the homeless. Now it can accommodate up to 29 individuals-family members who stay for 60 to 90 days while they develop self-esteem, a source of permanent income and save money for permanent housing.

Betty Escobosa, one of the committee members, lead tours of the new comfortable looking house prior to the Recognition and Celebration Banquet, where contractors, subcontractors, builders and volunteers were thanked. Even though HIS house is structurally finished, there are still neede items which range from alarm clocks, baby clothing, gardening tools, ironing boards to pillow cases. Please call 993-5774 for information.

And thank you to the following for volunteering their time so that six Yorba Linda Pop Warner cheerleader teams placed in recent Orange Empire Conference competition at Sabbleback College.

The spirited Placentia/Yorba Linda gals, aged 7 to 14, are so excited that they can hardly wait till next year (sign ups

SHARED SORROW

Mothers of AIDS victims driven to educate a judgmental society

"I was born alone, I will leave alone. I will spend the rest of my life looking for every bit of knowledge and insight I can achieve, every human feeling a soul can feel. I will lose my friends to death, growth or apathy on their part, or misunderstanding and confusion on mine. But forever I am a part of them, and they a part of me. God has made this puzzle, the soul baptized Michael."

—Michael Styles
1960-1989

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Holding her son's notebook paper, the Fullerton mother has resurrected his hand-printed testimony. She tearfully recalled the personal suffering when three of his friends committed suicide. And she was reminded how his other friends were paid by their families never to return home.

In neighboring Placentia, a councilman's wife thumbed through an antique address book. Her son's celebrity world, neatly indexed between the leather covers, reflects theatrical success.

Two mothers, a shared sorrow: losing gay sons to AIDS.

Clairee Tynes chronicled son Bill Tynes' battle in a tender, forthright booklet, "The Miracle of Bill." Ann Vinion spilled her gut feelings aloud in the privacy of her Fullerton living room.

Though both have never met, the women are committed to educating a judgmental society. On Sunday, they will join hundreds of AIDS activists in the World AIDS Day observance at Cal State Fullerton Student Center.

Relaxing in her memory-laden home, Councilman John Tynes' wife conceded she couldn't accept her son's homosexuality until three weeks before he died. "I just wasn't conditioned that way," she explained. "It was terribly hurtful."

Her beliefs, however, took a back-stage role as she spent endless hours in her son's New York apartment, helping create a comfortable environment as HIV took its toll.

Little Billy Tynes' compassion for the theater began at an early age, his mother recalled. A violin, now hanging in the Tynes' living room, captured the child's musical talents. Continued amateur performances eventually led the Valencia High School graduate to New York where his name went up in lights at the New Amsterdam Theater, a showcase for classic musicals.

Clairee Tynes was eventually introduced to a theatrical world charmed by her son's enthusiasm and creativity. And in time, the artistic director's actor-friends played out real-life parts that helped to ease Bill Tynes' personal storyline.

"When Bill was diagnosed in 1984, doctors didn't know much about HIV," Tynes said. "Finally, they were able to develop a test where anitbodies in the blood indicated a virus, but they still don't know how to detect the virus."

As death neared, family and friends arranged for the 30-year-old's final days to be spent in the bedroom of his Placentia home.

Please see AIDS/20

Clairee Tynes of Placentia chronicled son Bill Tynes' battle against AIDS in a tender, forthright booklet, "The Miracle of Bill." During the past few months, she has actively tried to establish a local support group for families with AIDS.

Special thank yous go to Lyric Mayes, cheerleader coordinator and her assistant, Cathi Smith.

And a thank you to Nina Friar from BeautiControl for makeup tips so that I wouldn't look "that old" at my 30th high school reunion. Then there's a big thank you to Miss Placentia, Debbie Ramirez. WOW, what a terrific role model and representative she's been. But wait a minute, her term isn't over yet! After a rigorous competition among Southern California pageant winners, Debbie was selected to be a member of the Freedom Bowl Court.

During Bowl week, she will be making appearances at CHOC, senior citizens organizations and Rotary luncheons, all this festivity culminates in the Dec. 29 football game. After the Bowl activities, Debbie will begin rehearsals for the Miss Placentia Scholarship Pageant (Jan. 30). This year's theme "Ride the Rhythm" is sure to excite 1993 Miss Placentia hopefuls: Alicia Baldwin, Andra Carter, Jill Connelly, Kimberly D'Arc, Kimberly Dodds, Kimjera Euler, Connie Leamon, Loreene Maurer, Melissa Parker, Stacia Saucedo, Tami Waite and Jennifer Whitson. Give the Chamber of Commerce a call for the best ticket buy in the city: $12 includes the exciting pageant (Pacific Auditorium-Pacific Christian College) and Alta Vista Country Club reception.

Over at Wagner School, the PTA is sponsoring a holiday gift shop on Wednesday, Dec. 2 and it's in the evening 6:30 to 8:30 to make shopping more convenient for working moms and dads. Karen Andrews tells us that many, many handcrafted items will be on display/sale in the multi-purpose room and that a PTA sponsored children's holiday gift shop on Dec. 1 to 3 during the school day. Give a call to Karen 528-4999 for information. Now I think a thank you is in order for Hank Montelongo, PTA president for driving this to my house to beat the column deadline!

Who's the new groom? Arturo Sandoval, that's who! He and Norma, a longtime childhood friend, tied the knot three weeks ago! Our congratulations and best wishes to the couple who are the host and hostess over at El Farolitos.

A big thank you to the 120 golfers who showed up for the annual Placentia Boys Club tourney! This guy probably thinks he's been busy but in a couple of weeks his world will be just a whirl and blur of packages, streets, addresses and deadlines that would make any Santa tired! Who? Charlie Eskew. Why? Well, Charlie was recently honored for 20 years of service with United Parcel Service. He began his career in Texas as an auto mechanic in 1972 and was soon promoted to automotive supervisor. Then in 1974 was promoted to fleet manager and completed assignments in Southern Illinois and Missouri. He stated "After all these years, it's the daily challenge of the fast changing business that keeps me going at UPS. Accomplishing job respnsibilities, success and achievement give the greatest job satisfaction." Sounds like Charlie likes his job — you bet! He hasn't missed a day of work in 20 years! And when he's not at work, he spends time with his wife, Phyllis, or goes fishing or golfing.

Happy birthday: To May Lemke who celebrated number 97 on Nov. 12. The Daughters of Golden West gave her a celebration party, She has been a member of Grace Parlor 242 for 63 years. Born in Whittier, May has been a longtime Placentia resident and if you look closely, you'll find a city street named for her family. Her daughter, Clara Jane Nixon, is the sister-in-law of former President Richard Nixon. And to May, we add our happy birthday wishes, too.

Placentia people traveling around: Dorothy Woodson and daughter, Brooksie, traveled to Denver, Colo. by Amtrak — and what an adventure they had. In Las Vegas, a wheel bearing went out on the train so they stayed overnight in the Union Plaza while repairs were made. The next day the journey got underway and they were all treated to the beautiful mountain and canyon scenery as all the bright colors were on display between Salt Lake City and Denver. They tell us the return trip home was not quite as exciting as going up, but all in all they had a good time!

Gil and De Nelson former Placentia residents dropped by to visit friends over at Hacendia Mobile Park. They now live in New Mexico. Friends and neighbors said they all had a good time visiting.

Wagner House (Yorba Linda Blvd. and McCormick) will be transformed into an Enchanted Christmas Workshop, Dec. 10 to 13. This remarkable, historic homestead will resonate with the sparkle, warmth and children's laughter of 70 years of Christmases past. When you enter the Enchanted Workshop you'll be surrounded by handmade treasurers, decorations, seasonal treats and handmade edibles — admission cost: food for the needy — donated cans collected at door.

AIDS: Victims' mothers turn to education

FROM 12

He choreographed the placement of "props," personal possessions symbolizing a life enriched by a loving family and dedicated friends.

Tynes died Jan. 9, 1987. Yet his legacy remains alive in a bedroom filled with Mary Pickford memorabilia; playbills; a photograph of "Granddaddy's" import firm, circa 1918; and his mother's handwritten inscription: "Dying is not important, living with a purpose is."

Searching for spiritual comfort, the parents located an accepting congregation at Emanuel Episcopal Church in Fullerton. After their son's death, Clairee Tynes spent five months writing, in longhand, her final experiences with an AIDS-embattled son. An Episcopal publisher agreed to print her chronology, edited by a gay priest.

She joined the AIDS Ministry Ecumenical Network (AMEN) of Orange County, eager to counsel other families with similar needs.

"I've grown in many ways," Tynes conceded. "I've confronted intolerance, have more introspection and have become more educated. My life is more secure."

During the past few months, she has actively tried to establish a local support group for families with AIDS. One minister has agreed to provide a meeting site.

"It's been hard working with churches," Tynes indicated. "They have a stigma about gays that are being imposed on congregations."

It's been three years since Ann Vinion's 29-year-old son, Michael Styles, an expeditor for a computer firm, died suddenly of AIDS. "I've tried to shove my son's death into the background, but I'm still crying at commercials," she said.

Styles, abandoned by his father at an early age, confessed his sexual preference to his mother at age 16. A Fullerton High School classmate tried to convince Styles to come out of the closet, but his mother recalled, "He was afraid of getting beaten up."

"We all had our suspicions when Michael was young," she confided. "I took him to a counselor when he was 9 to find out why he never got mad and seemed so different. The psychologist told me not to worry, Michael would grow out of it."

In school Styles traveled with girls. He was known as a ladies' man, Vinion said. And when he worked at Disneyland, he spent three weeks staying with a distraught co-worker, a single young mother who had been raped.

Vinion, who worked for 11 years as secretary to the nurses at Fullerton Elementary School District, and her second husband, a plumber for the school district, often heard co-workers voice disgust over gays spreading AIDS.

"When Michael died, we merely said his liver shut down,' Vinion said. "Remember, at that time you couldn't tell anyone. Now everyone seems to know someone affected by the AIDS virus."

A front-page newspaper photograph divulged the truth. When the Fullerton mother carried her son's quilt in an AIDS Walk, a photographer captured the tender moment for the front page of a metropolitan publication.

"I dreaded going to work the next morning, not knowing how to react," Vinion said. "But when I walked into the office, everyone was so comforting. On lady had put a red rose on my desk. The truth was out."

The Vinions suggested Michael's friends arrange a memorial service in their home, a decision Ann Vinion recommends to families of AIDS victims.

"I asked them to bring a picture and happy story of Michael," she recounted. "The results were so upbeat."

For the past three years, Vinion has supported the AIDS Walks, collecting sponsorships throughout the area. Periodically, she runs across an anti-gay comment, including a recent reaction from a medical doctor who told her that if gays weren't around, there would be no AIDS. "And to think this man knew I had a son who died of AIDS. Ignorance is appaling."

Glancing at a favorite photograph, Vinion recounted, "When my son told me he was gay, it didn't change my love or outlook. I guess I was known as the progressive mom."

Ten miles east, Tynes sat in the family room where she said she felt her son's presence. "God must have known about Bill's every day, and it all came off just how He planned it. Bill accomplished so much as an open, happy and productive gay person.

Then in a softened tone, Tynes added: "We really can't determine what is to be. We just have to make the most of what we've got."

Can't escape state taxes on pension income

By Ernest J. Dronenburg Jr.
State Board of Equalization

Question: I have been in California most of my adult life and now I want to retire back home. I heard that California will continue taxing my pension even after I move from the state. Is this true? What can I do about it?

Answer: Your question is a good one for any Californian planning to retire in another state. This issue of how to tax retirees is now coming to a head.

Our tax system currently is based on the principle that income should be taxed where it is earned.

This is called the "source principle," because your income is derived from the "sources" within the state. In other words, California will tax your retirement income no matter where you move and at the same time will usually tax the retirement income of people who retire in California from other states.

California tries to justify this divergent situation by saying: 1) if your income was earned in California, then California should collect the tax no matter which state becomes your home in retirement; and at the same time, 2) that tax must be paid on income earned in another state when you move to California because now you are using California roads and services. This policy of taxing every which way you turn is unfair.

The state's authority to tax nonresident income from in-state sources was upheld by the US Supreme Court back in 1920 in the case of Shaffer vs. Carter. Since that time, California and seven other states have taken the position that retirement pay is simply deferred income. These states argue that they are not discriminating against non-residents because they have a system of reciprocal credits for taxes paid to other states.

Tax tips

Deadline nears

State Controller Gray Davis has reminded senior and disabled homeowners that Dec. 10 is the filing deadline for California's Property Tax Postponement Program, which allows qualified homeowners to postpone or defer payment of all or part of their property taxes.

The program makes loans to qualified homeowners and mobile home owners for payment of their residential property taxes. The loans do not have to be repaid until the homeowner either dies, sells the home, moves out and leaves no spouse or qualified participant in the program, or allows future taxes to become delinquent. The loans may be paid off at any time.

Gray said it is estimated that more than 900,000 homeowners with annual household incomes of $24,000 or less could enjoy the benefits of the tax postponement. "But last year only about 10,000 participated," Davis added.

The interest rate this year is 6 percent. That rate is derived from the state legislature's requirement that the annual interest rate be equivalent to the prior year's rate of return of the State Pooled Money Investment Fund. The interest rate for any given year will not be affected by rates for future years.

Information is available at county tax collector's offices, public libraries, senior centers and volunteer taxpayer assistance sites. For further information, call 1-800-952-5661.

Volunteers sought

The Internal Revenue Service and Franchise Tax Board, sponsors of the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, are looking for volunteers to help prepare income tax returns for low-income, elderly, disabled and non-English speaking taxpayers.

Training begins in January.

After completing the course, volunteers donate a few hours each week, from Feb. 1 through April 15, to the VITA site of their choice. Most sites are located in libraries, schools, churches and community centers. Operating hours vary depending on the site facility and the demand for assistance.

BARTERING

Achieving success without cash

Barter broker Sheri Gregg, TradeAmericanCard company owner Mike Ames and Stacey Wikoff make last minute preparations before their busy day starts on the phones. TradeAmericanCard is one of several barter organizations in the area. Bartering allows business owners to save cash, get rid of surplus inventory, sell real estate or even finance a new store.

Business owners offer some unique tricks of the trade

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Bartering the birth of his daughter may be a highly unusual example of trade on delivery. But Mike Ames of Orange uses the illustration to point out almost anything is negotiable.

Seven years ago, Ames, founder of TradeAmericanCard, interested his wife's obstetrician in trading his services with a veterinarian. The entrepreneur cashed in on an heirloom, daughter Allyson. These days, Ames' said his $10 million business boasts 2,500 services accessible through a computerized clearing house.

TradeAmericanCard, which opened 20 years ago, is now one of several barter organizations in the area. Bartering allows business owners to save cash, get rid of surplus inventory, sell real estate or even finance a new store.

"In this economy, it's a great way to fill a sales void, move outdated inventory and keep a cash flow basis," said Joe Hill, founder of Trade Club Exchange in Garden Grove.

Hill's 60-day-old firm has already enlisted 78 members with an added sales point: multi-level marketing. Members can trade services with each other, using trade dollars instead of cash, in effect, barter. Additionally, they can receive financial overrides on trade volume from members they have personally sponsored into the club.

And in Trade Club Exchange, not just one line of products or services must be bought or sold. Any number of products of services of the member are acceptable as authentic transactions.

Meanwhile, Ames recommended his members never use more than 10 percent of their business for bartering. "You can't pay utilities on trade. We're not the king, cash is still the king."

He also insisted all members be screened. "I've seen about 12 barter businesses go belly up, many times because no one bothered to look at their financial statements. The directors were left holding the trade dollars."

With legal bartering a multi-million dollar business, most club members depend on barter brokers to locate needed services. The brokers find customers for members and their products. Or they can act as purchasing agents, scouring lists for members' specific needs.

Credits accumulate in the members' trade accounts like money. A credit card is then used to spend those accumulated trade dollars at the store or at the business locations of other members.

TradeAmericanCard offers a department-like store at the Town and Country shopping center in Orange. A full range of merchandise and listings of services provide a need for nearly every purpose.

Bill Singer, marketing director for TradeAmericanCard, said he has nearly completed his Christmas shopping, thanks to the barter store displays. "And for those who do a lot of traveling, hotels actively seek trade arrangements. Empty rooms are a lost profit."

Members concerned they will be cleaned out of stock because of the popularity of their products or services are assured they are never obligated to sell beyond their reserve obligation or credit line, whichever is greater.

Ames' company, which he founded while working at a health club, also outlines advantages of trading for each new member. Cash is worth 20 percent to hold on to it, Ames said. Some of the merchandise sold to members could have been very inactive in inventory.

Members are also regularly reminded of the advantages of joining a bartering club. In addition to complete record keeping of their transactions, the membership is shown how to improve the cash flow, allowing conservation of funds for items that cannot be bartered.

"What we're looking at is recessionary times with barter booming. It's a real networking effort," Ames said.

Musicians play to captive audiences in area penal institutions

By Tim Dermody
North County News

Talk about recidivism. These musicians were sent to jail three years ago and found it to be such an enriching experience that they allow themselves to be returned, week after week, month after month.

They can't stay out of the hoosegow. They love being behind bars.

But the members of the quartet Rock N'Spirit are not felons or criminals, but rather social activists who deliver a musical message to the occupants of jails and juvenile halls.

As Catholic Detention Ministry volunteers, the group provides musical accompaniment for Mass and the other liturgical services that are celebrated in Orange County penal institutions.

Rock N'Spirit — which also goes by, Trinity Rocks — was playing guitar Masses in area churches when a CDM volunteer invited them to a Christmas caroling session behind bars.

One thing led to another and the group was offered the chance to contemporize the services on the inside.

"The first time was scarier than hell," said Rock N'Spirit drummer Bud Basnett. "It was nervewracking. It was in July and it was hotter than all get out and we were extremely nervous standing in front of 75 kids.

"There was an initial period of wondering what would happen, but when we started playing, the kids made us feel comfortable and at home. When they started singing, it showed we mattered to them and showed us they enjoyed what we were doing.

"That really helped our confidence and we've being going back ever since."

Basnett, Sharon Croghan, Kurt Misner and Theresa King are just some of the two dozen CDM musicians on the volunteer rolls.

CDM is run by the Society of Saint Vincent de Paul. In Orange since 1978, the organization serves incarcerated individuals, their families and the community with three services:

Friends Outside acts as a bridge between prisoners and society by organizing jail visits and support groups, and involving recently released individuals in job training and referral situations.

The Victim Offender Reconciliation Program introduces lawbreakers to the people they've abused in an attempt to demonstrate a victim's individuality.

And the Catholic Detention Ministry trains volunteers in one-on-one counseling and encourages them to participate in benefit events, liturgical programs and religious study groups.

Some of the more talented CDM volunteers entertain prisoners and jailed juveniles by providing contemporary musical accompaniment to the religious services celebrated on the "inside."

The society dispatches its musicians to six adult facilities and five different Orange County juvenile halls.

Here's how it works:

Institution brass will contact St. Vincent de Paul and express an interest in the society's services.

Sister Cathy Vallejo, 34, director of the society's center for community reconciliation, then fills the request from a list of performers, singers and musicians that she keeps in her Orange office.

CURTAIN CALL

Satire takes most guild honors

By Peggy O'Hara
Correspondent

Those in attendance at the Brea Theater League's fifth-annual donor's Guild Award ceremonies saw a British satire run away with most of the honors.

"See How They Run" garnered the lion's share of the evening's awards, coming away with six of the eight top prizes.

"Run" performers Christopher Carstens and Jenny McGlinchey won best actor and actress award, respectively, while R. Dean Jones and Elizabeth Swenson received best character actor and actress honors.

Best supporting actor and actress awards went to David Billman and Sonja Albrichtzen for their work in "See How They Run."

Eric Gunhus and Bets Malone won best male and female vocalist awards for their work in "Joseph and His Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," and were also named the year's most outstanding performers.

Emceed by Wade Mansur and P.J. Mansur, the awards jubilee attracted approximately 150 visitors to Brea's Curtis Theater.

The nominees were announced in a ceremony similiar to the entertainment industry's large award shows. After receiving statuettes, winners were photographed with the presenters.

David Engwall received the 1992 Falco Award as the donor guild's "most valuable founding member." He and wife Mary Engwall, who won the award the past two years, are longtime supporters.

"All That He Was" is a rich, insightful musical that is startingly relevant to today's politics.

Functionaries, vanguards, politicians, military leaders and various members of our homphobic society would be well advised to know this story. Everyone can appreciate the play for its humanity, truth and meaningful score and lyrics.

Subtitled "Family, Friends and AIDS: A New Musical," the show that recently graced the Cal State Fullerton Arena Stage was an outstanding work that demonstrated the strong talent working in the university's theatre and dance department.

Written by CSUF graduate Larry Johnson with a score by Cindy O'Connor, "All That He Was" was directed by graduate student James Taulli.

After seeing "All That He Was," CSUF theater instructor Jim Voltz was so impressed that he is now considering taking the show to professional theatres in Los Angeles and New York City.

Ranging in mood from ironic comedy to conflictive drama, the story opens with a young man welcoming the cast and audience to his funeral. A victim of AIDS, he hopes the gathering of parents, siblings, friends and acquaintances will provide a forum for reconciliation and understanding.

Teeming with splendid music with a backdrop of excellent voices and emotional performances, "All That He Was" is flecked with defiant humor from a cast relating its feelings about the victim and his effect on their lives.

Dyan McBride is hilarious as an energetic activist. Her costuming is used to great effect in a charged scene with the man's religiously charged sister, performed with pizzazz by Kari Hayter.

In addition to playing other characters, Rachael Hand is convincing as a persuasive doctor. Brad Hoffner and Rafael Duran are beautifully cast as homosexual men who understand the gay world.

Dana Meller, Edgar Shultz, Jim Finnerty and Steve Robinson give high-energy performances. North Orange County's Jared Pfeifer displays a spine for emotion, and Paris Bradstreet is strong as the loving but troubled mother.

Initially, lead Jim Gray is little more than an actor playing a gay role. However, his encounters with the cast give him depth and sincerity.

Designer E. Junior Usaraga provided an excellent symbolic setting that represented pieces of a larger puzzle. It was ideal for the social, emotional and political questions raised by the dramatic script.

Taulli's dedication and his deft direction made "All That He Was" more than a theatrical plea for humanity and understanding. He turned it in to an entertaining and definitive statement about the need for action.

If you missed "The Heidi Chronicles," the first time around, be sure to catch it when it's reprised early next month.

The members of the Fullerton College drama department deserve many accolades for their funny, observant rendering of Wendy Wasserman's comedy-drama.

Skillfully directed by Bob Jensen, "Heidi" is witty, nostalgic and well performed. Like many of the playwright's satirical characters, Wasserman's lead and her friends are white, educated, affluent, professional women.

An art historian, Heidi opens and closes the play with lectures that are anything but didactic. Heidi's chronicles begin at her 1965 prom and end in 1989 in an elegant apartment with a newly adopted baby.

The episodes between those years are dramatized by more than 50 fascinating historical slides projected on an enormous rear screen.

An all-student cast lead by Mary Thorton in the title role handles its character transitions with intelligence and aplomb.

AWARDS

El Dorado captures drama honor

By Tim Dermody
Features editor

The honors keep on rolling in for a local group of young entertainers.

Performers from El Dorado High and Tuffree Junior High schools were recently awarded high finishes at the Drama Teacher's Association of Southern California annual festival in Rancho Palos Verdes.

The most recent kudos follow El Dorado's award-winning performance in another drama festival last month.

Almost three dozen El Dorado and Tuffree drama students conspired to help their schools place in the top 10 in the festival's sweepstakes awards.

Placing third among all Southern California students in the Audition Monologue category was Michelle Vidal, who was directed by senior drama student Sarah Henry.

Ten students teamed up to earn a fifth-place finish in the children's Anything Goes division. Contributing were Jenny Montelongo, Sharon Haver, Kim Wright, Michelle Mecham, Laura Syhre, Kristen Wanger, Wendy Olsen, Matt Burton, Natalie Foutts and Raina Chavez.

Jody Agius and Kevin Walker combined to finish sixth in the Two Person Dramatic category.

Local students earned another sixth-place finish in the Group Serious competition: They were Kevin Holmes, Jeremy Tate, Kaci Kaufman, Emily McClintock, Rosalynn Silva and Jason Warden. This group was directed by senior drama student Danielle Brown.

A whole host of performers earned semifinal awards:

Natalie Brown advanced in the Audition Monologue category, as did Jaime Vitkus, Gita Nanjundappa, Abha Oswal and Danielle Parham for their performance of an original piece called "Differences."

Semifinalists in the Two Person Humorous division were Angela Schmunk and James Hart.

Earning semifinal awards in the Group Humorous category were Mike Speakman, Wes Seymour, Lucy Leicht, Kelly De Paola and Jessica Weeber.

Guided by drama department director Gai Jones, El Dorado and Tuffree students participated in seven events.

For more information on this event and the El Dorado and Tuffree program, call 993-5350, extension 229.

MINISTRY: Group provides music for jail

FROM 24

provide music for religious services, there are plans to form bands and groups that will perform special shows and concerts. They will play a special concert at an Orange County juvenile hall today.

"The thing that touches me the most is knowing we're in a secured facility with a very controlled environment, and people are finding freedom through our program — if not in their minds, at least in spirit," Sister Cathy said.

"If they just let go and leave their troubles behind for one hour, then I think we've done a great service."

Now in her seventh year as director, Sister Cathy has seen the program touch the lives of inmates, volunteers, guards and wardens.

Prisoners who join the choir or institution's singing group don't want to do anything to jeopardize their participation. Therefore, they are often more well-behaved and conciliatory.

Sister Cathy theorizes that jailers and probation officers appreciate the program because it helps foster a sense of self-worth in the inmate. It also provides them an emotional and spiritual outlet.

And the volunteers are enervated by the knowledge that they are providing a service that not only comforts the individual, but also helps society by alleviating some of its pressing problems.

"I get a couple things out of it," said Croghan, the lone Protestant in the mostly Catholic Rock N'Spirit. "It's neat on a personal level to interact with the kids and let them know they have support in their church family.

"And it's nice to show them adult role models that are not totally authoritarian. We like to show them that we can be young and fun and still be positive role models."

At this point, Basnett is the only member of the group who does more extensive volunteer work.

> "The thing that touches me the most is knowing we're in a secured facility with a very controlled environment, and people are finding freedom through our program — if not in their minds, at least in spirit."
> Sister Cathy Vallejo
> Director, Catholic Detention Ministry

The Kennedy High School graduate does individual juvenile counseling, and is considering working at adult institutions and with the probation department.

The work provides him some much-needed perspective.

"I like the whole idea of getting involved with the youth," he said. "I like people and I find it personally satisfying that I'm doing something that not everybody can do. A lot of people are afraid to do this.

"I feel like I'm going somewhere where people are afraid to go, and taking a bad situation and making it a little better."

Playing to a captive audience can be, ahem, exciting. Sister Cathy, who has been mugged and robbed on the outside, has also seen her share of incendiary situations on the inside.

A violent set-to broke out while she was volunteering at an institution several years ago, and before she knew it, Sister Cathy found herself surrounded by a circle of burly inmates.

She demanded to be freed, but her wishes were ignored. The inmates told her she wasn't going anywhere until it was safe.

The members of Rock N'Spirit say they have never experienced one particular violent situation.

Yet they have seen their share of mistreatment and ill will.

"There are so many things in there that are negative that you have to overlook it," Basnett said. "It's violent and overcrowded and some of those things have made an impression on me.

CIF CROSS COUNTRY

Sara Valdez of El Dorado is up among the leaders during the early going of the Division III final at Mt. San Antonio College Saturday. Valdez ran well enough to qualify for this weekend's CIF State Championship at Woodward Park, Fresno.

El Dorado's Valdez to run state

Senior runs 19:21 at Mt. San Antonio

By Ron Kitchell
North County News

Sara Valdez, a senior at El Dorado, qualified for the CIF State Division III cross country championships with a time of 19:21 at the CIF Southern Section Division III cross country finals Nov. 21 at Mt. San Antonio College.

Valdez came back from an injury last year to become the Golden Hawks' only qualifier for state by finishing 9th among Division III schools.

Coach Charles Titus said the difference for Valdez this year was that, because she gave up basketball, she could train consistently for cross country.

"She's worked real hard," Titus said. "Last year, she had a hip injury from basketball. The main thing (this year) is staying healthy."

The CIF State Championships will be held in Woodward Park in Fresno.

A split decision for local schools

Valencia routs Covina, will face top seed next

By Bob Cunningham
Sports editor

Valencia's football program finds itself in a position it hasn't had to worry about in recent seasons — the Tigers are underdogs in a playoff game ... and it's just the second round.

Coach Mike Marrujo is working wonders with a young team. Gone, at least temporarily, are the days when a veteran, consistent Valencia team routinely routed the opposition, even in the playoffs.

Here are the days of scratch, claw ... and still win big most of the time.

Valencia, the Orange League's No. 2 representative in the CIF Southern Section Division VI playoffs, opened postseason play last Friday with a 38-9 rout of host Covina that was at least as bad as the Los Angeles Raiders-Washington Redskins Super Bowl of 1983 that ended in the same score.

"Their offense couldn't do a thing," Marrujo pointed out. "They were only able to score because of a couple of breakdowns in our kicking game. Our defense played very well.

"And we moved the ball real well."

But now the Tigers must face an 11-0 Charter Oak squad (also from Covina) that is the division's No. 1 seed, a post the Tigers held last year on the way to the championship and a perfect

El Dorado's year ends with 14-0 playoff loss

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

The season has come to an end for an El Dorado High football team that made its second-straight playoff appearance for the first time since the early 1980's, won eight games for the first time during the four-year tenure of coach Rick Jones and made a contest of its first-round loss to 57-player Servite with its contingent of 34 players.

Losses are painful. Pain doesn't erase accomplishment.

The Golden Hawks (8-3) failed to capitalize on four Servite turnovers inside the Friars' 32 and dropped their CIF Southern Section Division II first-round game, 14-0, to a team that had already shut out the likes of South Coast League champion Mater Dei and Division VI champion Valencia, and had held everybody else to 17 points or less.

Servite advances to a second round game with Pasadena Muir.

El Dorado, meanwhile, is allowed its chance to reflect on a season in which the Golden Hawks improved record-wise for the fourth time in Jones' fourth year.

The Golden Hawks attained top 10 status in the Orange County and Division II polls, rising as high as seventh in the county.

El Dorado, relying on an evenly balanced offense and a defense that wouldn't surrender double-digit point totals, won its first six games — including a memorable

GIRLS SOCCER PREVIEWS

Tigers relying on tradition of success

Team must overcome graduation of league MVP

By Rusty Evans
North County News

The Valencia High girls soccer team lost Mary Folino, the Orange League Player of the Year, to graduation.

That will hurt.

Folino was so valuable, she earned the league's top award at a position devoid of glamour: Defender.

But Coach Richard Leverett is entering his eighth season as coach of the Tigers and he's got tradition on his side in preparing the 1992-93 edition.

The school has a streak of 10 consecutive years making the CIF Southern Section playoffs, and it appears the Tigers have enough to make it 11.

"Based on past experience with Valencia, we look to be competitive," Leverett said. "That doesn't mean we'll win every game, but when we play another team, they'll know we're there."

Leverett is basing his optimism on the presence of nine returning starters from last year's team that went 5-1-4 in league (second place), 9-7-7 overall, and reached the quarterfinals of the 2-A playoffs before losing to La Serna.

"Who will replace Mary remains to be seen," Leverett said. "A few players have the potential with their ball control, speed and tenacity."

One of them is sophomore Mary Frazer, and junior Casey West will also see time at defender.

Both will be in support of goalkeeper Brandi Bermosk, a junior who earned second-team All-Orange League honors last year, and finished the season with 104 saves.

Senior Michele Lytle was a first-team all-leaguer at center halfback, contributing five goals and seven assists.

"Michele used to be a left wing," Leverett said. "She has tremendous speed and she's got a great kick. She can make a cross (pass) from one side of the field to the other, and I use her for corner kicks because she can hook a ball into the goal from there."

Helping out on the Valencia attack will be senior forwards Lena Trevino and Amber Dickey, and junior forwards Cherie Jaques, Taryn Copping and Nicole Folmer.

"Jaques could be the fastest player in the league," Leverett said. "She could be a big scoring threat at the wing position."

Leverett envisions a good ball-control team in this year's edition of the Tigers and heavy conditioning is something the team has already experienced, something that will also help extend The Streak.

If everything comes together right, the Tigers may win their first league title since the 1990-91 season.

Golden Hawks hit new year with new coach

Holcomb inherits successful El Dorado program

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

The ambitious plans of a 23-year-old rookie coach will complement the elements of youth and speed this winter as El Dorado High's girls soccer team makes its run at an Empire League championship.

Jeff Holcomb, the coach, accepted his position with the Golden Hawks during the summer and is brimming with enthusiasm about his young team that features five returning starters, only two of whom are seniors.

"Just say that we're a real smart team with great skills," Holcomb hastily tells an observer as he instructs his practicing troops on passing and shooting fundamentals.

El Dorado finished out of CIF Southern Section playoff contention a season ago, placing fourth in an Empire League race claimed by an Esperanza team that is back with eight returning starters. Runner-up Los Alamitos will also have a strong gathering of players ready to move up one spot in the standings.

"We'll do fine against them," Holcomb said. "We're young and talented. I wouldn't say we're 100 percent confident of winning it all, but we'll do fine."

The confidence begins for Holcomb with his junior forward, returning starter Carlye Wind.

An all-Empire League volleyball player in the fall, Wind is the prohibitive choice to be El Dorado's leading goal scorer. It helps that she's the fastest runner on the team.

Senior forward Gina Gutierrez will also do her scoring share at forward.

Returning with Wind are midfielders Amber Thompson, a senior, and sophomore Kelly Bogan. Senior Liz Levins is back at sweeper. Sophomore Kelly Wilhite is another defender with varsity experience.

Holcomb is inspired enough by the feats of 14-year-old freshman fullback Vanessa Solon to call her, "brilliant." Sophomore fullback Nikki Hart will help complete the Golden Hawks' defensive alignment.

A former soccer player at Troy High in Fullerton and later at Chapman University, Holcomb says his players' skills defy those usually given to players ages 14, 15 and 16.

"We're very poised," he said. "We have the team talent to outrun opponents. We are, and will be, very fit. And we have a lot of depth. Depth is a key with this team."

Counting its two goalies, El Dorado possesses a varsity squad of 19 players.

Asked to point out any aspect of the game his team may be deficient or lacking in, Holcomb said, "I can't pick one thing.

"Our main goal is to win league and do well in CIF," he said. "They're young, but they'll do fine. We're going to have a great team."

On Tuesday, the public begins to find out as El Dorado meets Hacienda Heights Wilson in its non-league season-opener.

31-3 romp over cross-town rival Valencia — before being overwhelmed by the county's top-ranked team, Los Alamitos, 41-0.

That type of defeat could've embarrassed another team into submission. El Dorado, though, outscored Loara and Cypress 51-14 in its next two games, clinching a playoff berth outright. In 1991, the Golden Hawks sweated out an at-large berth.

The regular season ended on a sour note for the Golden Hawks, as they once again incurred the wrath of the Empire League's and county's second-ranked team, Esperanza, 42-0.

Jones again rallied his troops after a lopsided defeat.

Servite had outscored its 10 opponents 272-77 entering its Friday home game at Cal State Fullerton, but would tally only a touchdown on its first series and a 71-yard scoring pass in the third quarter against an inspired Golden Hawks' defense.

Unfortunately for El Dorado, Servite's defense was inspired as well.

On four ventures inside the Friars' 32, El Dorado was stymied by an interception, a missed 37-yard field goal, two sacks resulting in a punt and the ball being turned over on downs.

Junior running backs Alex Molnar and Spencer Frost were held to a combined 42 yards rushing and quarterback Jim Beck mustered only 95 yards passing.

Fifteen of the 16 Division II teams have or will experience what the Golden Hawks did Friday night by losing. Before losing in these games, though, you first have to win.

PUNT, PASS & PICK

Cerda wins grand prize

North County News

Ten weeks, ten contests, hundreds of football games ... and a hundred bucks.

That's the summation of the 1992 North County News Punt, Pass & PICK Football Contest for 20-year-old Juan Cerda of Anaheim Hills, whose name was drawn as the $100 grand prize winner.

NCN Executive Editor Jannlee Watson drew Cerda's tattered entry form from Week 4 out of a box containing nearly 700 entries from the entire 10-week contest.

Cerda, a carpet cleaning specialist with Golden State Chem-Dry of Yorba Linda, is a 13-year resident of the area and a 1991 graduate of Canyon High School. He is a part-time student at Rancho Santiago College, studying to get into the advertising field.

Ironically, Cerda was informed of his prize Nov. 19 — his 20th birthday.

"Oh yeah? That's a nice surprise, and on my birthday, too," he said.

So, what will the lucky winner do with his prize?

"Just save it right now," he said. "I do want to get my car painted but I'm going to wait for awhile to do that."

As his mother, Maria Cerda, said laughing, "What does a 20-year-old do with a hundred dollars he didn't expect?"

Juan Cerda is a former weekly contest winner, triumphing once in 1991.

14-0 record.

Charter Oak, the Miramonte League champion, relies on a big-play offense paced by running back Mike Harris, who has eclipsed the 200-yard barrier three times in 11 games.

"He's the type that you'll hold him to two yards, two yards and then bam, he breaks it for 70," Marrujo said. "We have to prevent the big plays."

Could the fact that Valencia is an underdog help the team emotionally?

"I'd rather be favored and the No. 1 seed," Marrujo confessed. "But if we do what we're capable of and avoid mistakes, we've got a good shot."

A team of prep baseball players finished fourth in the eight-team Doyle Brothers Fall Classic baseball tournament, played Nov. 13-14 at Phoenix, Ariz.

The squad, coached by Tom Brown, split six games against various scout and development teams, most of which fielded players older than those on the Orange County roster.

"Seventy-five percent of those kids have either signed letters of intent or been drafted," said Brown. "We were the youngest team there."

El Dorado sent three players: Kevin Selway, Jason Jackson and Glenn Posein. Justin Averitt of Valencia and Southern California Christian's Phil Shipman also are on the roster.

The squad may be involved in the Brea Christmas Tournament, hosted by Brea Olinda High Dec. 19-20.

FICTITIOUS NAME STATEMENTS -ATTENTION: BUSINESSMEN BUSINESSWOMEN

If you are doing business under a "Fictitious Business Name", that is, if you are doing business under a name not your own and you are an individual, partnership, trust corporation or association, you must keep an up to date fictitious name statement on file with the County Clerk in the county where you do business, or where your principal place of business is located.

You are also required to have your fictitious name statement (FNS/DBA) published in a qualified newspaper circulated in the area where you do business, once a week for four consecutive weeks.

Your first filing must be within 40 days of opening your business; the publication must be started within 30 days after the filing; and the proof of publication supplied by the newspaper publisher must be filed with the County Clerk within 30 days of the fourth, and final publication.

Once your FNS/DBA has been filed and published, it is effective for five (5) years, unless the information contained in it changes. In the event of such a change, your FNS/DBA expires 40 days after the change occurs. (A change in your residence address, however, will not cause your FNS/DBA to expire). If no change occurs, your FNS/DBA will expire five (5) years from the date it was filed with the County Clerk. And if there are any changes at all in the FNS/DBA, it must be republished.

The fictitious business name law ensure that public notice is given and a public record kept, regularly updated, of the owners of all businesses operated under fictitious names. Anyone desiring to know who actually owns a business can obtain this information from the ORANGE County Clerk.

If you abandon the use of your fictitious business name, you should file and publish a notice of abandonment.

If a person named on your FNS/DBA withdraws from a business, a notice of withdrawal should be filed and published, or a dissolution of Partnership published if only two owners.

Notices of abandonment and of withdrawal are published in the same manner as a FNS/DBA, once a week for four consecutive weeks. A dissolution is only published once.

The NORTH COUNTY NEWS has these forms. They may be acquired free of charge.

The law regarding fictitious name statements is found in the California Business and Professions Code commencing with Section 17900.

Prayer To The Holy Spirit
You who made me see everything & showed me the way to reach my ideals, you who gave me the divine gift to forgive & forget the wrong that is done to me & you who are in all instances of my life with me. I thank you for everything & confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Thank you for your love toward me & my loved ones. Amen. Person must pray for 3 consecutive days without asking for the favor. After the 3rd day the favor will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Promise to publish this dialogue as soon as the favor is granted. D.S.

New MLS systems are coming soon

Patrick Veling's
PROPERTY LINES

I recently returned from the National Association of Realtors annual convention in Hawaii. I was only one of more than 20,000 real estate professionals who converged on Honolulu to learn of the latest trends and techniques in our business.

This year's convention trade show featured over 300 real estate-related exhibitors, the majority of which touted their computer systems for the automated storage and retrieval of property information.

Recent technological breakthroughs are finally bringing the real estate business into the computing mainstream. The affects will be dramatic in the coming years, as both real estate professionals and clients reap the benefits.

The most startling improvements will be in the application of the new products to multiple listing services. The manner in which subscribers retrieve, store and manage MLS data will be revolutionized. Full color photos of listed properties will also become available.

Until now, computerized MLS systems were on-line, and linked a central mainframe computer with a terminal or PC. Data storage and retrieval were always done in real time — sending or receiving property information over the phone line. A relatively new technology called distributed data base will change all of that.

Increased PC speed and memory will soon combine to give brokers and agents the ability to manage MLS data in almost any way they choose. The power will be a result of not having to be "on line" in order to manage the data. The data itself will still come from a remote computer, managed by the local MLS. However, most office computers will connect to it only once daily — usually automatically and late at night — in order to update the data base.

Improved data storage technology will allow as many as 100,000 records to be stored and maintained on a standard office PC. The agent will have the capability to view records on the PC screen, to print them out, and to run virtually any report without the aid of the MLS storage computer.

Another benefit is that offices will be able to maintain their own computerized MLS archive. Current MLS capacity usually requires that data 12-18 months old be purged in order to add new records. Until now, older data was available only in published book form.

Computer graphics are finally being applied to our business as well, with the addition of color photos and mapping capabilities. The listing photos will still be taken by MLS staff photographers. However, agents may include additional photos of the home's exterior and interior features for a nominal additional charge, all of which will be sent via the new distributed data base systems.

The Comparative Market Analysis will be greatly enhanced with computerized mapping capabilities that will pinpoint the exact location of comparable homes. Also, showing homes to buyers will be made much easier. The touch of a few keys will result in a printout of homes in the order the agent wants to show them, as well as a detailed map on which the agent may determine the route.

All of these changes support the philosophy that real estate professionals don't sell homes. They instead sell service and valuable information on which important selling and buying decisions can be made.

There is no shortage of real estate-related information. The key, as in all businesses, will be to separate the valuable information from that which doesn't apply.

These new technologies will help agents and brokers to be of better service to those clients who understand what they are really buying when working with a real estate professional.

New buyer system is unveiled

Coldwell Banker has introduced a Best Buyer System that helps sales associates find and finance a home for the buyer.

The cornerstone of the Best Buyer System is the Best Buyer Guidebook, which is a comprehensive, buyer-friendly tool. The contents of the Best Buyer Guidebook are organized into four main sections which are color coded for easy reference.

The first section, entitled ''Getting Started,'' is designed to help the buyer and sales associate determine quickly the price range the buyer can afford. An interest rate chart provides the inforamtion needed to calculate monthly principal and interest payments.

Section two, ''House Hunting,'' provides worksheets that make it easy to compare the homes visited. The sales associate will provide the buyer with detailed information on any home currently listed for sale on the market.

The third section, ''Financing,'' offers a brief description of the basic features for both fixed and adjustable rate mortgages. Financing terms unique to those products are also provided. The ''Estimated Buyer's Costs'' page breaks down the approximate closing costs. A financing process illustration shows the buyer what to expect, step by step. Also included are answers to frequently asked questions, which will help resolve common concerns the buyer may have regarding home financing.

The final section, ''The Language,'' is designed to help the buyer understand real estate terminology used in real estate transactions.

For more information about the Guidebook, contact a Coldwell Banker office.

Survey reports first-time home buyers on the rise

Nearly half of all California homebuyers this year purchased their first homes, as many households moved to take advantage of opportune homebuying conditions, according to a survey released this month by the California Association of Realtors.

First-time homebuyers accounted for about 49 percent of all California home sales in 1992.

Property values in state on rise

State-assessed and county-assessed property in California rose to approximately $1.8 trillion for 1992-93, an increase of $86.9 billions (5.1 percent) from last year's total of approximately $1.7 trillion, according to Ernest J. Dronenburg, Jr., vice chairman of the state Board of Equalization.

Orange County total property assessments grew from about $170.3 billion in 1991-92 to approximately $178.6 billion in 1992-93, an increase of 4.9 percent. Orange County assessment figures are the second highest in the state, surpassed only by Los Angeles County with market value of 503.1 billion.

Dronenburg said that the value of California county-assessed property grew by $88.4 billion (5.4 percent) to approximately $1.7 trillion.

Discounts offered senior citizens

Realty World-Lifestyles is taking a step toward being at the forefront of real estate with a new seniors discount program, according to owner Bob Bilotti.

''It's time we changed,'' Bilotti said. ''Many seniors are moving in and out of the area, and it's time that we acknowledged their needs. Everyone should be giving seniors a discount, and now we will.''

All seniors selling or purchasing a property handled by Realty World-Lifestyles will receive a discount. To qualify, seniors should contact any sales associate at the company.

Realty World-Lifestyles is a full-service firm that offers the services of Realoan, a national in-house mortgage service, Realine, a national referral company, and a national home warranty company. The company handles residential and commercial properties and related services.

The Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC), California Sales Center based in Newport Beach, has set the auction date for the Prime Commercial, Retail and Bank Branch auction to be held at 2 p.m. Dec. 8 at the Anaheim Marriott Hotel.

The property list consists of more than 25 properties including bank branches, office complexes and condos, retail centers and shopping centers located in Anaheim, Bakersfield, Camarillo, Canoga park, Cerritos, Corona, Costa Mesa, Glendora, La Mirada, Palm Springs, San Marcos, Garden Grove, Orange, Avenal, Los Alamitos, Palm Desert, Santa Ana, Sepulveda, Temecula, Riverside, Huntington Beach, Rialto, San Bernardino and Simi Valley.

According to Shannon O'Toole, RTC California Sales Center department head, "This auction is a direct response to the public. Their continued interest in valuable RTC real estate has grown with each auction that we hold. This promises to be one of the best auctions we've had in terms of the quality of property available."

Investors can call Auction Hotline, 800-999-5949, to receive a free full color auction brochure where they will find information about due diligence, property inspection, deposits, brokerage information and closings.

Dunnings and RTC have scheduled a bidder/broker seminar on Dec. 1 at the auction site. The seminars will educate interested bidders and brokers on the auction process through a mock auction, and allow them to ask questions.

Properties will be opened for public inspection from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Dec. 3 and 5.

Realtors continue sponsorship of Safety Through Songs

For the past seven years, local Realtors have sponsored Safety Through Songs, a nationally acclaimed child safety program in North County schools. Since the projects start, Realtors have given away over 30,000 Safety Through Songs kits to area first graders. Each kit consists of a song and coloring book and cassette tape. Topics covered include: never accept rides from strangers; look both ways before crossing the street; bicycle and pool safety. Lessons are also included on seat belt safety along with an admonition not to play with poison containers.

Reaction to the program has been positive.

Real estate firms post increase in earned revenue, survey shows

Despite a slowdown experienced in 1990 and 1991 by the residential real estate market, real estate firms posted an increase in revenue earned from transactions, according to a survey from the National Association of Realtors.

According to the report, the gross revenue earned by residential brokerage firms rose 31 percent between the survey periods 1990-1991 and 1987-1988. NAR President Dorcas T. Helfant said this increase is attributable to the steady home appreciation experienced by many markets during that time period. Additionally, sales production rose — real estate firms closed 17 percent more transactions between 1990 and 1991 than in 1987 and 1988.

However, the expansion was offset to some extent by a decline in profits. Despite the increase in revenue, company profits dropped due to increased costs. The net profit margin, calculated on earnings before interest and tax payments dropped 21 percent between 1988 and 1991. A similar decline resulted when measuring profit margins based on the company dollar approach. According to the survey, while gross revenue rose 31 percent from 1988 to 1991, total operating expenses rose by 35 percent, which drove down profit margins.

Both variable and fixed expenses rose notably from 1988 to 1991. Commissions to sales associates, the main component of variable expenses, rose 9 percent during the period. From 1987 through 1988, firms paid a median commission per transaction of $1,080; from 1990 through 1991, the median commission rose to $1,180. Fixed expenses — mainly salary and occupancy costs — rose 22 percent between 1987-1988 and 1990-1991.

"These cost increases mainly are due to an expanding sales force. To be effective, a large sales force needs administrative support, office space and other facilities. The price of growth is greater maintenance costs," Helfant said.

The number of residential sales associates per firm rose in 1990 and 1991, continuing a trend that began in the late 1980s. The median sales force in 1990-91 was 15 full-time associates, up from 12 in 1987-88. From the beginning of the 1980s until that period, the median sales force held steady at about 10 associates. According to Helfant, the sales force expansion likely was due to an expectation that the housing boom of the late 1980s would spill over into the 1990s. However, she noted that the expansion might also reflect consolidation by firms in areas that were beginning to feel the effects of the recession.

The survey found that firm size does affect profitability. Larger firms recorded lower profit margins than smaller ones. Although larger firms tend to generate more revenue and produce more sales, they incur substantially higher expenses. The median profit margin for large firms (those with up to 50 full-time associates) and very large firms (those with 50 or more sales associates) was 2 percent, compared to 8 percent for small firms (firms with 10 or fewer associates). According to the study, the discrepancy could be explained in part by the tendency of larger firms to be located in larger markets, where operating costs are greater.

Firms that sell primarily their own listings proved more profitable than those generating the bulk of their business through cooperative sales. The study points out that firms with a large volume of in-house sales keep a larger share of the revenue generated from a sale, compared to the revenue generated from co-op sales, which involve splitting commissions with another firm. The profit margin for firms with high in-house sales was more than three times as high as that for firms with low in-house sales.

HOUSE TALES

Home investment needs to be protected from criminal elements

Nearly 7 million homes are burglarized each year, according to crime statistics from the U.S. Justice Department. Additionally, the department estimates that over a 20-year span, 80 percent of urban households, 70 percent of suburban households and 64 percent of rural households likely will be targets for burglary.

Traditional methods of home security include locks on doors and windows, flood lights, and watch dogs. However, electronic security systems are being used more frequently.

"Homeowners who are considering electronic security for their homes, need to follow a few guidelines when choosing an alarm company," says Jeanne Barnes, president of the North Orange County Association of Realtors. "Taking a few precautionary steps is the best way to make the most informed decision."

The North Orange County Association of Realtors offers the following tips:

1) Obtain recommendations for a reputable security system company from the Better Business Bureau, neighbors, or local police departments. Ask security system providers for the names of previous customers to contact for referrals. If they won't give this information, look elsewhere.

2) Find out if the company is a member of a local, state or national alarm association. These non-profit trade associations promote professionalism, ethics and education to remain current with industry practices and technology. Check with state or local governments to see if licensing is mandatory in your area. If licensing is mandatory, ask the company to show proof of their licensing as well as proof that the installer is licensed.

3) Make certain that the company you choose offers a 24-hour monitoring service.

4) Once you have found three of four companies that meet these criteria, have each survey your house and offer written, detailed quotes on the equipment and installation of an alarm system.

5) Once you have selected a company, you will probably be ready to sign a contract. It should cover the warranty, service and monitoring.

6) Alarm systems can be bought or leased. It is not recommended to buy or lease a system from a company that does not offer a contract for continuing maintenance and service. There are usually two costs involved — the cost for installation and the monthly service charge. The monthly charge may include not only costs for maintenance but also the cost for special telephone lines (if leased) and responses to alarms by an alarm company agent.

7) Installation should be warranted for a minimum of 90 days. If the equipment will be purchased, a service contract should be considered.

8) Review the contract carefully or have a lawyer do so.

"There are many different types of alarm systems,' says Barnes. "The system should protect the entire perimeter of the home, every door and window that could serve as entry point for a burglar. Consider an alarm that will ring a bell or sound a siren or buzzer on the premises." She notes that many companies install central reporting alarms that silently signal the alarm company's headquarters to dispatch the police and possibly alarm company agents. Where permitted by local law, some companies offer direct alarm connection to the police or fire departments.

"It is a good idea and very economical, to have a fire alarm system installed along with the burglar alarm system. Have the company provide price estimates for both," Barnes says.

To protect the alarm system from a power outage or from a burglar who may cut the current to the home, it is necessary to have an auxiliary source of power, such as a battery pack, she advises.

"The homeowner must understand how the system works in order for it to be successful. It is very important to learn what it does or does not do, and what must be done to keep it in proper working condition. The alarm company should provide written instructions for testing and using the security system. This will help reduce the number of false alarms and maintenance calls," Barnes says. "An investment in an alarm system is an investment in the security and safety of loved ones. Time spent becoming familiar with the system and the company is time well spent."

The North Orange County Association of Realtors is one of 11 such organizations in Orange County and is the Voice for Real Estate serving Brea, Fullerton, La Habra, La Habra Heights, Placentia and Yorba Linda.

Realtor's must earn their title

Did you know that not all real estate agents are Realtors? Some people may assume that the word Realtor is just another word for real estate agent or broker.

But that is a false assumption because the term Realtor is a distinction earned only by those real estate brokers and agents who are members of the National Association of Realtors and abide by its strict code of ethics.

Real estate brokers and agents who wish to be Realtors must first be accepted through their local Association of Realtors. Before being admitted to membership, the agent or broker pledges to abide by the nationally recognized code of ethics. The code demands high professional conduct. It is a three part document addressing the members' relations with the public, the client and fellow Realtors. The essence of the code is the golden rule, contained in the preamble: Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.

The National Association has 800,000 members, California Association of Realtors 140,000, and the North Orange County Association has 2,400. North Orange County is one of 11 Realtor associations in Orange County and one of 183 in the state.

The North Orange County Association of Realtors, as a member of the California Association of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors, is not simply a member of the largest trade association in America, it is an assurance to the public that its members are pledged to the highest degree of ethical professionalism.

A copy of the Code of Ethics is available from the North Orange County Association of Realtors, 1441 Brea Blvd., Fullerton, CA 92635.

Rates as of Nov. 19, 1992. All loans listed are conventional 30/30 for loans below $202,300 except as specified in the "Notes" column. Points are the per cent of the loan balance paid to the lender at the time of loan closing. For fixed-rate loans, borrowers are advised to compare lock-in features; for adjustable programs ask the lenders if the loan has the potential for negative amortization as well as other important factors such as the index, margin, Caps, insurance and lock-in. Lender Type is: B = bank; K = mortgage banker; R = mortgage broker; S = savings & loan. Mortgage bankers and brokers are licensed by the California Department of Real Estate as either a broker or corporation. For more information call Calif. DRE at (916) 739-3758.

All Annual Percentage Rates (A.P.R.) are calculated by Mortgage News Co. based on a $202,300 loan amount, the points as shown and $700 total fees. An A.P.R. is an estimated annual cost of the loan to the borrower, and they are included in this chart for comparison only. When applying for a loan, Federal Truth-in-Lending law requires lenders to calculate an A.P.R. specific to each loan offer. All quotes are not an offer to enter into a loan agreement. All rates are subject to change; verify rates and terms prior to applying for a loan. All lenders charge other fees in addition to those shown, as well as provide loans with different rates and terms for different loan amounts. For a consumer guide on how to shop for a mortgage, send $4.50 check payable to Mortgage News Co., 1505 East 17th St., Suite 211, Santa Ana, CA 92701. If you have questions please call (714) 836-1177.
